ROSENDAHL WILL VISIT DALY CITY

To watch the Akron fly over San Francisco gave thousands of spectators a thrill, to many it was the sight of a life time, and to Mrs. Emily Inglin, who lives at 415 Irvington street, Daly City, it was the proudest moment she ever expects to describe. Her nephew, Charles E. Rosendahl, is Lieutenant-Commander of this gigantic silver bullet.

Commander Rosendahl, skipper of the largest and mightiest airship in the world, survivor of the Shenandoah disaster, adviser to Dr. Hugo Eckner on the epic world tour of the Graf Zepplin, is coming to visit his aunt as soon as the Akron is moored at Sunnyvale.

To Mrs. Inglin the distinguished aviator is just Charlie, the youngster who used to read a great deal, but never let books interfere with his mischief, and who was determined to earn for himself an education.

"No, there was nothing special about Charlie as a boy. He was like all the rest of them, lively and always into something. But he liked to learn. He was always reading," Mrs. Inglin reminisced as she proudly displayed a picture of Charlie, a healthy-looking youngster, as a baby.

Mrs. Inglin came to America from Sweden. The last time she saw her famous nephew was in 1915. "He came out here and took me to see the sights at the Panama-Pacific Exposition," she said.

Commander Rosendahl's father was a mechanic. The skipper of the Akron is not married.

LOCAL BOY SCOUTS TO ENJOY OUTING

Arrangements are being made to have a group of Daly City Scouts attend the summer camp, Camp Royaneh, located near Fairfax, some time during the summer vacation. This is an up-to-date camp, maintained by the San Francisco Area Council, with all conveniences and appurtenances necessary for the comfort of the boys attending this wonderful camp. There will be officers at the camp at all times to take care of the large number of Scouts expected to attend this season, and also to train them in Scout work.

Next Wednesday evening, May 18, the District Committee, Boy Scouts of America, will hold their regular meeting in the local City Hall. All members are requested to be present for the purpose of completing final arrangements for the whist to be sponsored by the Boy Scout organization of Daly City the following Tuesday evening, May 24. The Scouts and Cubs are working very hard to make this affair a success and the public is asked to give them every assistance possible.

Crocker Chapter Members Observe Advance Night

Amidst a host of friends and visitors, Crocker Chapter No. 382, O. E. S., on Monday evening, May 2, greeted their future Worthy Matron Sybil Riddell and Worthy Patron George Batz. An initiation also took place, and among those initiated were Miss Dorothy Riddell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Riddell, and Miss Josephine Jensen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Jensen.

Members of Chapters about the Bay and Peninsula regions were well represented, together with deputies and officers of city and state. The floral decorations were lovely, and a much enjoyed repast concluded the evening's festivities, one of Crocker Chapter's outstanding events. The members of the committee for the evening were Sisters Janet Turner, Elise Faulkner, Grace Miller, Margaret Swan, Henrietta Palmer and Margaret Archer.

Crocker Chapter will be hostess to Crocker Lodge on May 16, at 8 P. M., followed by an entertainment.

INTERESTING NEW BOOKS AT JOHN D. DALY LIBRARY

Mrs. Jean O'Rourk, librarian, has added many of the latest and best books to the shelves of the John D. Daly library. Among the new books received at the library are:

"Right of Way," by Bindloss.
"Tarzan the Invincible," by Burroughs.
"Good Earth," by Buck.
"Old Wine and New," by Deeping.
"Silver Bride," by Dell.
"Peril at End House," by Christie.
"Silver Star," by Gregory.
"Arizona Ames," by Grey.
"The Wifehood of Jessica," by Hauck.
"Lord of Lonely Valley," by Kyne.
"Swiss Family Manhatten," by Morley.
"Second Hand Wife," by Norris.
"Miss Pinkerton," by Rinehart.
"Two Black Sheep," by Wilson.

LEGION MEMBERS HONOR MOTHERS

Members of Daly City Post No. 410, of the American Legion, and their Auxiliary, attended the Mother's day services last Sunday, held at the Palace of the Legion of Honor, given under the auspices of the American Legion. War mothers were escorted there in special machines, where Comrade Bennett, state chairman of the Legion Americanization committee, read a message to the mothers of the 3,000,000 men who served during the World war. Music and speeches followed. The Post and Auxiliary colors made a fine showing at the ceremonies.

On Friday evening, May 6, the San Mateo Council of the American Legion held their meeting at the Belmont Post's new home. One of the interesting features was the final report rendered by the committee on "Safe Driving on the Bayshore Highway." The report showed in detail exactly where most accidents happened and the cause of the accident. Representatives from the state traffic department were present, and also from the Travelers' Insurance Company. Comrades Crane and Prizborowski were the delegates from Daly City Post. Commander Jack Mockler also attended this important meeting. All Legionnaires are welcome at these monthly meetings.

The American Legion in California is still growing. Charters have been issued to the following new Posts: Alamitos Bay Post, North Sacramento Post, Los Angeles Teachers' Post, Dante Post of Los Angeles, Coronado Post, Bieber Post, San Francisco Nurses Post, San Diego Nurses Post, and Artesia Post.

During the state convention business sessions will be held on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, August 15 to 17. Thousands of delegates are expected to arrive in Oakland on Saturday, August 13, and Sunday, August 14. Regimental reunion dinners are planned for Saturday evening. All Legion Posts in the east bay cities will hold open house and receptions for visiting comrades on Sunday. Lakeside Park will be the scene of Legion gatherings on Sunday afternoon. A continuous concert played by the many Legion bands attending the convention will attract thousands of convention delegates and residents of the community to the park on this occasion, it is predicted.

Santa Ana Post has a unique method of celebrating the arival of a new baby at the home of a member. The small cannon, war-time mortar, that stands in front of the Legion club-house, is planted on the proud dady's front lawn.

The next meeting of Daly City Post No. 410 will be held tonight, Friday, May 13, at Eagles Hall. The Post's able Vice-Commander, Orville Tallmadge, will conduct the meeting, as Commander Mockler has left town for a couple of weeks. Let's give Comrade Tallmadge a boost. A card party will follow the business session.

GOVERNOR ROLPH TO SPEAK ON "BACK TO GOOD TIMES"

Governor James Rolph, Jr., has proclaimed Monday, May 16, as "Back to Good Times" day.

A joint radio luncheon at the Palace Hotel in San Francisco, and the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles has been arranged for that date, and will be broadcast from 1 to 2 P. M., over both networks of the National Broadcasing Company and over all affiliated N. B. C. stations.

Governor Rolph in San Francisco and Mr. Joseph Scott in Los Angeles, and other prominent persons, will speak over the network. There will be an interesting musical program from both cities. This "Back to Good Times" program has been sponsored by the Bank of America, the speaker last Saturday night being Dr. George C. Pardee, former governor of California and president of the East Bay Utility District.

P. T. A. MEMBERS PLAN JOINT INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS

The members of the Woodrow Wilson-Vista Grande Parent-Teachers' Association will hold their regular meeting next Tuesday afternoon at 2:30, at the Woodrow Wilson school. This is a very important meeting, and every one is urged to attend. President Mrs. Marguerite Woodside has a very interesting report to give of the state convention, recently held in Fresno.

On Tuesday evening there will be a joint installation of officers of all P. T. A. units of the Jefferson district, to be held in the Jefefrson Union high school auditorium. There has been an interesting program prepared and every one is invited to attend.

Be sure and attend the whist to be held on Wedensday evening at the home of Mrs. Virginia Callsen, 199 Wellington avenue. An enjoyable time is promised.

EAGLES CHALK UP ANOTHER VICTORY

Before one of the largest crowds of the season last Sunday at Jefferson Union high school grounds, the Daly City Eagles kept up their winning ways by again defeating one of Uncle Sam's Fleet teams, the U. S. S. Whitney, by the score of 3 to 2.

The game was a pitching duel between Racket for the Navy boys and Ford for the Eagles. A brace of errors in the fourth inning by the Navy boys put the local team out in front, 2 to 1, the Navy boys having scored a run in the third inning on a long drive to Smith, with the bases loaded. A force at third base completed a double play. This play saved the ball game. The local center fielder didn't seem to have a chance to get his hands on the ball, but he did after a long run. The other outfielders also performed well; in fact, the entire team never played such a strong defensive game. Four double plays for our boys is somewhat of a record, but that's what they accomplished Sunday.

Mike Readon had a big day at second base and Allain played good ball at third base in place of Flores, who was laid up with a bad ankle, suffered in last week's game. Pepper Lems, local barber and Eagles pinch hitter, has hung up a haircut reward for each home run by Eagle players.

P. T. A. DELEGATES REPORT CONVENTION PROCEEDINGS

The regular meeting of the General Pershing Parent-Teachers' Association was held on Tuesday afternoon, May 3, at the school, the President, Mrs. Boyle, in charge. The meeting was largely given over to the reports on the state convention at Fresno, given by the returned delegates, Mrs. Woodside, Mrs. McIsaacs, Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Landini, Mrs. Urton and Mrs. Boyle.

The main feature of the afternoon was an interesting talk given by Mrs. Edwin I. Bartlett, newly elected president of the Seventeenth District. Every one present enjoyed listening to this charming woman.

This association, under the able leadership of its president, Mrs. Boyle, has been frequently complimented on the marvelous work being done for the community, especially the lunch room at the General Pershing school. Since January over 1,000 free lunches have been provided for needy children.

SEASON OF RACING CLOSES SATURDAY

The Pacific Coast Breeders Association will close its Spring meeting at Tanforan tomorrow (Saturday) with the Au Revoir Handicap, to be run over a mile and a sixteenth for a purse of $2,000. The Au Revoir will bring to a finish one of the most successful seasons ever held in the West.

In addition to the Au Revoir there will be the Juvenile Championship for two-year-olds, bred west of the Continental Divide. This race will be sponsored by Margaret Maria Murray of Palo Alto, queen of San Jose's Fiesta de las Rosas. Miss Murray will crown the victor in the Juvenile event.

Thursday the association conducted the Gymkhana Handicap, when society women of the Peninsula sponsored the various entries. The race proved a decided success and hundreds of the Peninsula's social leaders attended the event.

Besides the Au Revoir and the Juvenile Championship there will be at least a half dozen other interesting events for the thousands of spectators who are expected for the farewell. Last week end the track witnessed the greatest crowd ever to assemble for a horse race on the Pacific coast. At that time nearly 40,000 persons crowded the big oval for the Governor Rolph Handicap.

With the closing of the Spring meeting the association announces the Fall meeting, which will open in late October or early November and continue into December. At this time all the outstanding stake races offered in other Fall seasons will be repeated, and the same high standards will prevail. The same officials, who have brought the track the prestige it now enjoys, will manage the Fall session.

COUNCIL APPROVES LOCAL IMPROVEMENT

At the regular meeting of the City Council last Monday evening, Mayor H. H. Smith presiding, a communication was received from the Board of Fire Commissioner announcing the resignation of Firemen Heeringa, Grady, Krehl, and Arata from Company No. 6 of the Fire Department.

A resolution approving the report of the city engineer regarding certain improvements in the newly annexed territory was approved, and the hearing on this resolution will take place on June 13, at the hour of 8 o'clock, in the Council Chambers.

The health officer's report was read and ordered filed.

VETERAN FIREMEN'S PICNIC SCHEDULED FOR SUNDAY

The members of the Daly City Veteran Firemens' Association, their families and friends, will journey to Nelson's Park, formerly Gilmore's Park, near Menlo Park, next Sunday, May 15, where they will hold their annual picnic. The public is invited to join the Veteran Firemen on this picnic excursion. The picnickers will meet at the top of the hill at 9 A. M., and proceed to the picnic grounds. And don't forget to bring your cup, for the Veteran Firemen will serve coffee free. The outings of the Veteran Firemen of the past have been most enjoyable, and next's Sunday's picnic should be the best ever.

GRAMMAR SCHOOLS ENJOY FIELD MEET

The boys' relay race was by far the best event of the day at the track meet held at Jefferson High last Friday. Alexander Chiappari of Jefferson led Paul Ragghianti by six yards as the baton was passed to Albert Guista. John Guastavino, running against Albert Guista, added another two yards for Jefferson. Joe Lucia of Woodrow Wilson gained four yards on Joe Corsiglio at the start and gained another yard on the stretch. He then gave the stick to Henry Mendola just three yards behind Albert Agreti of Jefferson. Albert was on the outside of the track, but cut in, throwing Mendola out of stride and thus gained another yard. Mendola's fighting spirit was aroused and he put forth every effort to win. He passed Albert in the first fifty yards, getting a foot lead. They ran the next fifty yards stride for stride. In the last ten yards Mendola gained another foot, to win for Woodrow Wilson by one yard.

The girls' high jumping was the surprise of the meet. Eleanor Casentini went over the bar at 4 ft. 3 in. and Palmera Michelette took second place at 4 ft. 1 in. These records are exceptionally good for elementary school girls, when we consider that this is the first meet and the second week of practice. The world's record for women is 5 ft. 1 in. In the basketball throw for accuracy the girls scored over the boys. Practice more boys.

The high point winners for the girls were:

Vivian Chriesten, Woodrow Wilson, 10 1-2 points.

Winnie Baldacci, Wodrow Wilson, 9 1-2 points.

Eleanor Casentini, Jefferson, 9 points.

Ferrel Dodson, Woodrow Wilson, 8 1-2 points.

High point winners for the boys are:

Henry Mendola, Woodrow Wilson, 22 1-2 points.

Alexandro Chiappari, Jefferson, 12 points.

Albert Guisti, Woodrow Wilson, 11 1-2 points.

The Colma boys took all points in the shot put event, but Woodrow Wilson warriors evened matters by taking first, second and third places in the baseball throw for distance. Seven first places were won by Woodrow Wilson and three by Jefferson.

The final score stands:

	Woodrow Wilson	Jefferson
Boys	55	36
Girls	47	35

Next Friday Woodrow Wilson and Crocker meet on the High School grounds.

P. T. A. INTERNATIONAL FAIR, SAN MATEO PARK, MAY 20

An "International Fair" to be held in San Mateo Park, May 20, will mark the close of the year for the Seventeenth District of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers. The units of the district will be divided into groups, each group representing a foreign country. Central, Turnbull and Lawrence, representing Japan, will put on the "Boys' Festival of Dolls," under the direction of Mrs. T. Yamomotto of San Francisco. Howard avenue and Pershing as Russia will give a Russian dance; Lomita Park, Millbrae and Edgemont will present a Highland Fling for Scotland; Coolidge and McKinley will be Germany; Hoover and Roosevelt, Sweden; Boreland, Hayward Park, Spain; South San Francisco, Martin, Northbrae, Italy; Peninsula and San Mateo Park, China; Ravenswood, Los Lomitas, Menlo Park and Woodside, Holland; San Carlos, Belmont, Pigeon Point and Pescadero, Ireland; Daly City, Bayshore, Brisbane and Salada Beach will be Africa.

District vice-presidents and past district presidents will be in colonial costumes, with Mrs. J. R. Spann, out-going president, and Mrs. E. I. Bartlett, in-coming president, garbed as George and Martha Washington.

A luncheon consisting of foods characteristic of the countries represented will be served in the park at noon. A short business session at which Mrs. J. R. Spann will preside for the last time will precede the program.

ANOTHER PIONEER PASSES ON

One by one the pioneers are passing away. On Wednesday evening, May 11, Mrs. Alice McClelland, who has resided in her home at the corner of Santa Barbara avenue and Hillcrest Drive since the earthquake and fire in San Francisco, April 18, 1906, breathed her last, aged 81 years. The remains are at the W. C. Lasswell & Co. mortuary chapel, awaiting the arrival of her daughter, Mrs. Blanche Rollins, of Rockaway Beach, New York, when funeral arrangements will be made.

JEFFERSON BOARD AT SANTA CRUZ HI

What will be the next addition to the program of industrial education in the Jefferson Union high school?

This is the problem that is confronting the Board of Trustees and the principal.

The increased enrollment in the school has made it necessary to provide additional facilities in shop-work. The auto mechanics classes are overcrowded, and many pupils are not provided for, even by overcrowding.

The problem was presented to Mr. John C. Beswick of the State Department of Education, on his last visit to Jefferson. Mr. Beswick is assistant chief of division in charge of vocational education, and chief of bureau of trade and industrial education. His duties take him into all the schools of California, and also require him to keep in touch with the opportunities afforded to high school graduates by the industries of the entire state.

On account of the very limited funds available, Jefferson is confined in its choice of courses to those which require the lest expensive equipment. Printing and carpentering are the two lines of work which have been receiving special consideration. Taking into account the special desires of the pupils, as well as the lower cost of equipment, Mr. Beswick recommended the introduction of woodworking in connection with a Smith-Hughes course in carpentering, such as is carried on in the Santa Cruz high school.

In accordance with Mr. Beswick's suggestion, and in order to get information first hand, last week end the entire membership of the Jefferson Board of Trustees and the principal visited Santa Cruz and made a careful inspection of the several departments of the high school. Mr. Charles D. Stewart, the instructor in carpentering, acted as guide, and explained that the course in Smith-Hughes carpentering was being conducted in accordance with the rules laid down by the State and Federal Departments, which required actual building practice during one-half of each school day. The other half is taken up with correlated subjects such as drawing, mathematics, science, English, history, etc.

This course has an enrollment of twenty pupils in the forenoon and twenty in the afternoon.

The largest contract undertaken by Mr. Stewart and his boys was the construction of a gymnasium. This was built in accordance with standard rules of construction, and of sufficient size to provide room for two basketball courts. Individual showers are provided in ample numbers to avoid congestion or loss of time in dressing.

Next to the gymnasium is a girls' social hall of spacious dimensions with hardwood floor, and attractive panels. In one end is a very large fire-place, constructed of granite rock, brought from the neighboring hilis. The fireplace is a most attractive feature, and is the only part of the work not done by the pupils.

Adjoining the gymnasium is a building of concrete construction to house a heating and drying plant. The form work and finishing were

BOARD CANVASSES FREEHOLDER VOTE

Absentee ballots in the San Mateo county freeholder election were opened and counted last Monday by the San Mateo county board of supervisors, meeting in Redwood City, but the count failed to change the announced result of the election. It did, however, break a tie between Mona L. Christensen and James L. Casey for fourteenth place.

There were thirty-seven absentee ballots counted and one spoiled. Of these, four were single shots for Mrs. Christensen.

The complete count, with the absentee ballots, now shows the following results:

Edward Brady, 7,877; J. F. Cambiano, 5,358; David R. Campbell, 8078; James L. Casey, 7,279; T. Louis Chess, 7,700; Mona L. Christensen, 7,290; Manuel F. Cunha, 5,056; William H. Eddy, 9,004; Charles J. Eldridge, 7,785; Carl W. Elfving, 7,248; Henry C. Hall, 8,797; Alvin Hatch, 7,574; James B. Howell, 9,098; Edward P. Kauffman, 6,479; John W. Leggett, 6,705; Fred D. Lorton, 7,213; Jacob E. McCurdy, 8,066; S. D. Merk, 6,565; Charles L. Morgan, 6,879; Dr. William H. Murphy, 7,952; John C. Nowell, 8,425; Rudoph A. Rapsey, 5,318; Mary E. Ryan, 8,327; Carlo A. Torello, 4,674; Samuel H. Winklebleck, 8,479.

Monday afternoon and Tuesday the board was engaged in canvassing all the ballots of the election in addition to the presidential primary votes.

More than one million persons visited Indiana state parks in 1931.

SIDELIGHTS

Remarkable fortitude was displayed by Rosa Maria Acosta, a school teacher of Havana, Cuba, who kept silence for five months upon a doctor's advice. At the end of the ordeal she said: "I did something besides save my voice. I learned how to listen. Everyone might try it and profit." But they won't.

And Everett probably looks forward to the time when he will have the business all himself.

In contrast with the mania for more and more speed, a slow automobile race was recenly run in England, in which the winning car made only half a mile an hour, yet kept the motor from stalling during the test. Interesting, perhaps, but not likely to set a new fashion in motoring.

SUMMER CONCERTS ARE AGAIN ASSURED

Open air concerts on Sunday afternoons in the Woodland Theatre at Hillsborough will be given during the summer, according to a statement just issued by Mrs. Leonora Wood Armsby, managing director for the Philharmonic Soicety of San Mateo County, under whose auspices these Sunday concerts have been presented for the past six years.

The seventh season of these delightful programs which have won for San Mateo county, and the peninsula communities, not only nation-wide attention, but also international recognition, have been made possible through the generosity and civic interest of the guarantors and contributors, who keenly felt the need for the emotional stimulation and spiritual uplift which the great music of the masters engenders, was even more vitally necessary than ever before.

"The board of directors for the Philharmonic Society believed that from a community standpoint, we could not afford to allow these wonderful concerts, which have grown in popularity with each season, to lapse because of temporary conditions," declares Mrs. Armsby, "and we are greatly gratified that our guarantors have so enthusiastically and generously endorsed and supported our thought. The continued support of these concerts is a very definite expression of concerted co-operation on the part of the peninsula communities, and is an important and significant demonstration of our aggressiveness in meeting the present economic situation. We confidently anticipate that music lovers and the public generally will rally to the support of these concerts, not only by attention, but also by the early purchase of season coupon books, a wide distribution of which is vitally important to insure the success of the season."

Final and detailed information as to the dates of the concerts and guest conductors who will direct the personnel of the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, which, as in previous seasons has been engaged, will be announced shortly.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla.

That the selling of quality merchandise by truthful advertising means selling satisfaction.

Advertisements give the people a chance to know about new things that are unusually appealing and of excepional value.

All extra good buys and special bargains are always advertised.

Persistent advertisers extend a message of welcome. They are proud to have the opportunity to show their customers what quality and service mean.

A business that does not give quality and service won't last long. A business that does not serve the community well is soon known as a dead one, and people trade elsewhere.

It is only the goods of known value that retain the confidence of the buying public. Goods of uncertain value are not in demand.

Quality is a prime necessity in merchandise. "Just-as-good" is a source of peril to any concern selling it.

Customers must be satisfied, not only at the time of buying, but for a long time afterwards.

JUBILEE PLANS IN FINAL PREPARATION

Final preparations are being made for the fifth annual Jumping Frog Jubilee at Angels Camp on May 14 and 15, by the Angels Booster Club, sponsors of the unique event. It is the plan of the club to have two days of entertainment for the thousands of visitors expected. Practically everything will be staged on the street and will be free to the public.

Among the latest entrants to the frog jumping contest is "Barley Hops," personally entered by Senator Tallant Tubbs of San Francisco. According to Senator Tubbs, his marsh kagaroo is of the anti-prohibition variety, but was imported from dry Kansas.

Leon A. Whitsell, state railroad commissioner, has entered six prize jumpers with his hope of winning pinned on "O'Susanna," the pride of the flock. According to the commissioner, his pet leaper is temperamental as a move star, but won't touch hard liquor, only home brew, for the hops that's in it.

My Chrysler beats any car I have ever owned...

Mine isn't a front-page name. I'm not wealthy, I'm not poor . . . just go along enjoying myself in my own little world of neighbors and friends.

But just because I'm not famous myself is no reason why I shouldn't drive a famous car. I do. I drive a Chrysler—with that patented Floating Power everybody is talking about.

I like it better, far better, than any other car I ever owned. I don't care where I go, whom I meet, I can always be proud of my automobile.

It's satisfying to drive the smartest and best-performing car on wheels . . . the most up-to-date car . . . a car that has many fine things that other cars do not have.

Sure, I'm telling all my friends to buy Chryslers.

done by the students, but the pouring of the concrete was let to a local contractor.

At another place on the school grounds was a large music room capable of accommodating an audience of approximately 200, with stage and pit for band and orchestra. This was a job of reconstruction done by the students and shows the possible economies for a school district in connection with such a course.

Another piece of reconstruction work was a woodworking shop for the junior high school and another was a kitchen and cafeteria for one of the grammar schools.

Mr. Stuart pointed out that the primary purpose of all this work was the teaching of a trade to the pupils. In addition to this the school has been furnished with buildings of one kind and another that it could not have had otherwise on account of lack of funds.

A number of cottages has also been built throughout the community. One was built for the Salvation Army and several for different individuals who otherwise would not have been able to afford them. In such cases the owner furnished all of the materials and the pupils did the work, with the exception of the plumbing and electric wiring. It required approximately a semester's time to complete a cottage.

Mr. Stewart, the instructor, is now president of the local Building Trades Council, and has been in that position for the past twelve years. He has been connected with the Santa Cruz high school for the past ten years, and says that he has had enthusiastic support from the membership of the local unions. He is filled with enthusiasm for this work first of all because of the practical training he has been able to give the boys in carpentering and, secondly, because he and his boys have been able to furnish buildings and other accommodations for the school that could not have been had otherwise.

In the Jefferson party were Mr. and Mrs. Truman Bentley, Mr. and Mrs. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Gehringer, Mr. and Mrs. Mat Jensen, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Vireno, and Principal and Mrs. James Ferguson.

On the return trip the party stopped at the Big Trees in the Santa Cruz mountains and were delighted by Mr. Jensen, who acted as guide and lecturer on the trip through the grove.

RADIO WATCHES NEXT?

Olof Ohlson, chief engineer of a leading watch factory, makes the interesting prediction that watches of the future may be run by radio impulses sent out by broadcasting stations.

Mr. Ohlson is quoted as saying "the time may not be very remote when we shall be able to transmit energy by this means to operate watches without the aid of either a mainspring within them or of a local battery."

Should this prediction prove true, it will mark another epochal advance in horological science, which had its beginning in the ancient sundial. The sundial was perhaps the only instrument employed for time-keeping from the dawn of civilization until the invention of the water clock, ascribed to Plato, about 400 B. C.

Clocks were not invented until centuries later. While a primitive instrument, called the horologium, is said to have been devised in the ninth century, A. D., the earliest clock of which any description has been preserved is one made in Egypt about the year 1232. A beginning in clock making was made in Germany about 1364, the clocks being regulated by balances. The invention of the mainspring in 1500 and the pendulum in 1583 gave great impetus to clock-making, and it is believed that the first watches were made shortly afterward. But the minute hand was not added until after the invention of the balance spring, about 1660.

While Mr. Ohlson's idea of a radio watch, which may be carried in the pocket while kept going through impulses from a distant station, may appear fantastic, the wonderful achievements already witnessed must inspire a belief in its possibility.

DE-BUNKING TEXT BOOKS

Lieutenant - Colonel Thomas J. Dickson, who was senior chaplain of the A. E. F. in France, recently inspected 52 American text-books containing accounts of the World War, practically all of which he denounces as giving "distorted, ridiculous, absurd and stupid" ideas of our part in that struggle.

In these books our children are taught that the United States soldiers won the war, and the impression is given that they were superior to all other fighting men engaged. Such pretensions, he says, unless corrected, doom us to become the laughing stock of the world.

"We have a record that any nation can be proud of," Colonel Dickson says, "and we don't need to exaggerate what we did or belittle the others—not even the Germans."

Unfortunately, writers of history text-books write them primarily to sell, and they appear to think, perhaps correctly, that the greater the appeal to national vanity the better chance the book will have to be adopted for school use. Hence many of these text-books give the impression that every American general was a modern Alexander, and every soldier another Arnold Winkleried.

The truth that while American soldier have always given a good account of themselves in battle they have not been greatly different from other soldiers, all circumstances considered. When properly trained and equipped, the American soldier is equal to any in the world, and superior to many. Without such training and equipment he is at a decided disadvantage, as our own officers freely admitted.

Much that passes as American history is as apocryphal as the story of Washington and the cherry tree. Chaplain Dickson has performed a patriotic service in pointing out some of the bunk that is being taught under the guise of historical fact.

What American needs is a non-skid bath tub, according to John Burchard, of Boston, who declares that the chances of injury by slipping in a bath tub are a thousand times greater than riding in a railroad train and two hundred times as great as traveling in an airplane. Some folks take their lives in their hands every Saturday night.

A German designer has given an airplane three sets of wings, the rear pair of which can be inclined upward to increase its climbing power and prevent too sharp descents.

A folding device that resembles a roller skate has been perfected in Germany to be attached to a pedal to serve as a rest to support a bicycle when it is standing.

New type window awnings have been invented to admit light and air to rooms while excluding sunshine.

For testing the resistance of steel cylinders a machine has been perfected that can develop a pressure of a million pounds to the square inch.

Blocks of wood shaped like human heads have been introduced by a German for apprentices at the barber's trade to practice on.

A new fireplace screen has a compartment at one end to hold sewing materials or stationery.

A device using electric heat has been designed to repair surface cuts in automobile tires without removing them or letting out the air.

By a new device, two large parachutes are opened above a plane by pilot chutes which are shot from containers on the wings by compressed air.

A tool with a slender blade has been invented to pry bricks apart and remove moortar from them more rapidly than with a hatchet.

A new stethoscope instrument for examining the lungs by listening to the breathing, works by electricity and produces a chart showing the condition of the lungs graphically.

A new gasoline pump for the auto-service station prints a receipt for the customer and keeps a record for the vender.

Nickel has been made in such thin sheets that print may be read through five thicknesses of the metal placed a few millimeters apart.

A new farm machine does several jobs at once, combining the work of the spring-tooth harrow, the roller and the grain drill.

A pliable rubberized material, resembling leather but not greatly affected by moisture, has entered the field as a competitor of leather.

A new type of life-saving suit has been designed which consist of a one-piece rubber suit, which is air and water tight.

Two Yale University medical experts have developed a new gas called "carbogen," to save lives of pneumonia victims.

A deadly weapon which he says would destroy by explosion or fire entire cities and armies a thousand miles away, has been invented by Lester P. Barlow, of Stamford, Conn.

Russia announces the successful production of rubber from a plant named "towsagis."

Felt-coated steel, developed at the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, opens up interesting new commercial possibilities.

To convert observation balloons into dirigibles, a German inventor has perfected detachable motors that can be fitted in short order.

Tests of a new French anti-aircraft gun has proved that it is effective against airplanes flying at an altitude of about seven and a half miles.

A new prcess for finishing tires involves welding color into the tire walls and makes it possible to have tires conform to the color scheme of the car.

The Pathfinder's presidential poll recently completed embraced more than 235,000 ballots, of which President Hoover received 115,042. The three leading Democratic candidates stood Roosevelt, 49,626; Garner, 16,956; Smith, 12,299; Murray, 11,541. No other candidate of either party received as many as 5,000. A few jokers voted for Andy Gump, Jiggs, Stalin, Al Capone and others.

A GREAT SAFETY CONTEST

The National Traffic Safety Contest, which began the first of the year, to run twelve months, is the biggest safety movement ever attempted.

More than four hundred municipalities, in forty-three states, are competing for the title of "America's Safest City," in seven population groups. Two-thirds of all cities with populations between 100,000 and 500,000 are entered as are twenty-four of the twenty-six cities with more than 500,000 population. At least half of the cities have never before conducted organized safety campaigns. Past campaigns, of local origin, have been half-hearted and produced few permanent benefits.

The present campaign got off to a bad start in January, which showed an increase in automobile fatalities over the same period in 1931. A few cities—notably Seattle, Dallas, Baltimore, Boston, Cincinnati and Minneapolis—had encouraging decreases, but in others, notably San Francisco, Chicago, and Newark—the death toll soared. It is now up to motorists, in every community, to do their part to assure that other months make up for the black marks registered in January.

The individual citizen must make the campaign a success by his own efforts. He must school himself in safe and competent driving at all times, and follow the Golden Rule of highway usage. If that is done, 1932 will see the automobile accident problem improved.

When a movie couple publicly announce how happy they are, the divorce lawyers know there is new business just around the corner.

SUCCESSFUL WRITERS

How do writers become successful? That is a question now in the minds of half a million ambitious beginners, as it was in the minds of the present successful ones a few years ago. After a study of many books and reading many articles on the subject, one finds the question still unanswered.

About the only advice that can be given, it seems, is that of a noted editor who expresses it thus: "The only way to write is to keep on writing and never become discouraged." It might also be added that it is necessary to have something to say that will interest other people.

Fiction is the most difficult branch in which to gain success, but the most remunerative when success is won. Many noted writers followed other callings before beginning to write.

Harold Bell Wright, whose novels are said to bring him greater money rewards than those of any other writer, was a painter and decorator and later a preacher before he wrote his first book. The late Dr. Frank Crane also was formerly a clergyman. Peter B. Kyne was in the lumber business; Edgar Lee Masters was a lawyer, and so on.

Those ambitious to write for a livelihood would do well to hold on to some other job, however, until they have demonstrated that they have something to say and know how to say it. One can tell when that time arrives by the number and size of the checks received from publishers who buy his stuff.

COMRADESHIP OF FOES

If, as it is said, politics make strange bedfellows, it is no less true that war makes strange friendships. This was again illustrated by the friendship which arose between two opposing naval commanders of the Spanish-American war and their families.

In the naval battle of Santiago on July 3, 1898, in which Cervera's fleet was destroyed, Captain Antonio Eulate of the Spanish armored cruiser Viscaya surrendered to Captain Robley D. Evans of the U. S. battleship Iowa. Captain Eulate, who was wounded, tendered his sword to Captain Evans, but the American commander generously refused to accept it, and his chivalrous treatment of the enemy prisoners gained the admiration of his erstwhile foes.

When "Fighting Bob" Evans, then an admiral, died in 1912, a message of condolence was sent to his family by Eulate, then also an admiral and governor of the Canary Islands. Recently Admiral Eulate died, and his daughter notified Taylor Evans, of New York, son of the American commander, of the fact, receiving a letter of condolence in return.

Eulate was probably the last survivor among the important commanders who took part in the Spanish-American war. For more than a third of a century he had cherished the memory of a magnanimous action on the part of a victorious foe.

NEW FOOTBALL RULES

Alarmed by more than forty football deaths last season, the national football rules committee this spring adopted six new rules designed to make the game less hazardous. How they will work out in practice is a matter of interest to all lovers of this most popular sport.

The new rules forbid using the flying block or tackle; forbid defensive players to strike an opponent on the head, neck or face with the hand or arm; require more padding of equipment; make sustitutions rule more liberal and make the ball "dead" when any part of the ball carrier's body except hands and feet touches the ground.

Since the beginning of football, which some authorities trace back about 2,000 years, many variations of the game have been developed, the present American college game being a modification of the English Rugby.

Of all the plays invented in the history of the game, the "flying wedge," devised by Lorin F. Deland of Harvard in the early 90's, was the most deadly. In this the offensive players lined up behind one another in the shape of a V, the ball carrier being inside the apex of the formation. The smashing power of this flying wedge was so devastating that it was barred after only one season's use, however.

Many believe that the new 1932 rules will serve to reduce the number of injuries, without materially detracting from the zest of the game. If so, the public will view the work of the rules committee with much satisfaction.

CHINA HONORS FLIER

An American soldier of fortune who died fighting for an alien race was paid unusual honors a few days ago by the Chinese government at Shangahi, where he was given a state funeral attended by many thousands.

When he was shot down over Soochow on February 22 in combat with Japanese, Robert Short of Seattle, Wash., was just another aviator. But in recognition of his valor the Chinese government gave him the posthumous rank of Colonel and buried him with the highest military honors. His mother and brother had been brought from Seattle for the ceremony as guests of Chinese authorities. His funeral was the largest and most impressive ever witnessed in China for any foreigner, and a detachment of the Nineteenth Route Army, whose heroic defense of Shanghai excited the admiration of the world, was his escort. A Chinese government spokesman paid a glowing tribute at the grave, in which he said:

"During the darkest hour of China's desperate defense against a foreign invader, Robert Short, a friend from a distant land, flew out of the sky and gave his life that righteousness among nations might be vindicated and upheld."

THE AMERICAN JUNGLE

It is not a pleasant thing to think about, or to write about, but the fact is that the appalling increase in violent deaths in the United States is a severe indictment of our supposed civilization.

The record for 1931 shows approximately 34,000 dead from automobile accidents, 15,000 burned to death, and 12,000 homicides. The homicide death rate has been doubled in the last thirty years, reaching 10.8 per 100,000 of population in 1931.

Considering all the dangers which surround us, it would seem that life is less secure on an American city street than it would be in an African jungle.

The National League will probably get more publicity than the League of Nations during the next few months.

WE BACK UP

—This statement with facts: that statistics from the Census Department shows that the average number in an American family is four and one-fifth. We wonder if the one-fifth is father.

Another statement we'll back up is: that if we do the repair work on your car that it won't be done like a schoolboy washes his ears—we'll make a thorough job of it; and when we start on your job we don't waste our time looking for a wrench and then try to find a nut to fit the wrench.

SILVESTRI PITCHES NO HIT, NO RUN GAME

A number of our baseball fans missed one of the best games of the season last Sunday, May 8, when Silvestri, Colma Merchants' star pitcher, gave a great mound performance, turning in a no hit, no run game—a feat that every pitcher in the land dreams of, but is seldom accomplished. Only one man reached second base, this happening in the sixth inning. Silvestri also struck out seventeen batters out of thirty-one to face him. This youngster seems to be headed for a great career on the diamond. Franzoni and Silvestri did all the heavy hitting, getting two hits each in four times at bat. Varni, with his flossy fielding at the hot corner, seems headed places.

The boys have been playing some good games on Sundays at the high school grounds. Come on, you baseball fans, and let's all attend next Sunday's game at 2:30 o'clock.

Following is the box score for last Sunday's game.

MOTHER

A mother on the sidewalk as the boys were marching by
Is the mother of Old Glory that is waving in the sky.
Men have fought to keep it splendid, men have died to keep it bright,
But that flag was born of woman, and her sufferings day and night,
'Tis her sacrifice has made it, and once more we ought to pray
For the brave and loyal mother of the boy who went away.
There were days of grief before her; there were hours that she did weep;
There were nights of anxious waitinf, when her fear had banished sleep.
She heard her country calling, and she rose to the test.
And placed upon the altar of the Nation's needs her best.
No man shall ever suffer in the turmoil of the fray
The anguish of the mother of the boy who goes away.
You may boast men's deeds of glory, you may tell their courage great,
But to die is easier service than to sit alone and wait.
And I hail the little mother, with her tear-stained face and grave,
Who has given our Flag a soldier—shes' the bravest of the brave.
And that banner we are proud of, with its red and blue and white,
Is a lasting holy tribute to all mothers' love of right.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla.

Ray P. Stauffer, manager of the Shawnee, Oklahoma, News-Star, says:

"Many people in the United States today are at work comparing facts and figures with facts and figures of previous years, trying to foretell the immediate future in business. Many things have been proved and then found to be false. Many prophesies have been made, which have failed to materialize.

"There is one fact, however, that has been overlooked by so many of the business men of today. That is that there are thousands, yes, hundreds of thousands and millions of people in the United States today whose incomes are the same, or but slightly less, than they were at the peak. This mass of consumers has slightly less purchasing power now, as compared with previous years. They are spending their money as they make it. They are buying furniture for their homes, clothes for their children, taking their week end outings, having their childrens' teeth straightened and what not. In fact, they are not conscious of the so-called 'depression.' It means nothing to them.

"Let this large percentage of our population be told the value of purchasing today. Let them be shown merchandise of good quality. Let them go their own way without forever preaching to them the theory that business is very bad and that it will improve next month, next fall, or next year.

"The same rule applies today that has always applied and always will. Hard work well done or quality merchandise well bought and well advertised will always bring profits and success."

Public notice is hereby given that on Tuesday, the 24th day of May, A. D. 1932, at 11 o'clock A. M. of that day, on the front steps of the County Courthouse at Redwood City, County of San Mateo, State of California, I will, in obedience to said writ of execution, sell all the right, title, and interest of the said defendants, Giuseppe Giusto, also known as Giuseppe Guisto, in and to the above described real property, or so much thereof as may be necessary to raise sufficient money to satisfy said judgment, with interest and costs, etc., to the highest and best bidder for lawful money of the United States of America.

Dated: Redwood City, California, April 27, 1932.

JAMES J. McGRATH,
Sheriff of the County of San Mateo.
By C. A. CALLAGHAN,
Deputy Sheriff.

Clay A. Pedrazzini, Attorney for Plaintiff, 605 Washington Street, San Francisco, California.

April 29, May 6, 13, 20, 1932.

SUMMONS

In the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of San Mateo.

Adolfo Coruccini, also known as Adolfo Corruccini, also known as C. Corrucini, Plaintiff, vs. Nella Agresti, George A. Hensley, B. Mason Smith, and the City of South San Francisco, a Municipal Corporation, and all persons unknown who have or claim any interest in, or lien upon the real property herein described, Defendants.—No. 19879.

Action brought in the Superior Court, State of California, in and for the County of San Mateo, and the complaint filed in the office of the County Clerk of said County.

The People of the State of California send greeting to: Nella Agresti, George A. Hensley, B. Mason Smith, the City of South San Francisco, a municipal corporation, and all persons unknown who have or claim any interest in, or lien upon the real property herein described, Defendants.

You are hereby notified that an action has been commenced against you in the above entitled Court by the plaintiff above named, for the purpose of partitioning those certain lots, pieces or parcels of land situate, lying and being in the County of San Mateo, State of California, and described as follows, to-wit:

Lots 6 and 8 in Block One, and Lots 39 and 40 in Block Six, as said lots are designated on the map entitled "Section West of the Railroad of the Town of Baden, Part of Rancho Buri Buri, San Mateo County, California", which map was filed in the office of the Recorder of the County of San Mateo, State of California, on November 30, 1891, in Liber "E" of Maps at page 62.

You are hereby directed to appear and answer the complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of San Mateo, within ten days after the service on you of this summons, if served within this County; or within thirty days if served elsewhere.

And you are hereby notified that unless you appear and answer as above required, the said plaintiff will take judgment for any money or damages in the complaint as arising upon contract, or will apply to the Court for any other relief demanded in the complaint.

Given under my hand and the Seal of this Superior Court of the County of San Mateo, State of California, on the 5th day of December, 1931.

(SEAL.)

E. B. HINMAN, Clerk,
By LAURA F. COLLINS,
Deputy Clerk.

CALIFORNIA NEWS REVIEW

Renewal of his commission as postmaster at Turlock for a four-year period has been received by Walter M. Brown.

The Senate passed and sent to the President a bill authorizing the transfer to the city of San Diego of 920 acres of land for reservoir purposes on the San Diego River.

More trout for the lower Mokelumne River were asked of the State Fish and Game Commission by the Mokelumne Rod and Gun Club. The 225,000 trout planted last year have developed successfully.

A petition signed by thirty-eight Sonoma County residents has been filed with the county clerk at Santa Rosa, asking permission to be represented with a "Communist Party" ticket at the August primary election.

Coming as good news to California anglers more than 5,000,000 rainbow and steelhead trout eggs were gathered by state hatcheries in March. The baby fish will be released in lakes and streams during the summer months.

Increased rates on grain and flour between Solano County points, San Francisco and Oakland will be effected by the Sacramento Northern and Western Pacific railroads on the basis of authorization by the Railroad Commission.

The state division of agriculture have awarded contracts totaling $19,124 to the California Steel Products Company of San Francisco for installation of boilers and accessories at Folsom prison and the Sonoma State Home.

The Senate commerce committee reported favorably recently on a bill to authorize the appropriation of $10,000 to protect the Palo Verde Valley, California, from floods of the Colorado River. The bill is sponsored by Senator Johnson.

Two new 4-H clubs were organized in Tulare county late in March—at East Lynne and at Wilson school south of Dinuba. Eacn club will have about fifteen members. There are now twenty agricultural clubs in Tulare county.

The appointment of Herbert O. Davis, San Francisco, as inspector for the State Board of Funeral Directors and Embalmers in the forty-eight Northern California counties is announced by W. R. O'Beirne of Sonora, secretary of the board.

More than 200 former residents of Wisconsin, now living in Turlock and surrounding communities, perfected a permanent organization at a picnic recently, in Crane Park. E. E. Gilman of Turlock was named chairman and Everett H. Stracker, Modesto, secretary-treasurer.

Incorporation of the Peach Growers' League, organized to aid in control of the canning peach crop this season, was completed at Yuba City recently. League officials plan to affiliate with the newly organized Federated Peach Growers, a state-wide agency.

The price of water was reduced in the Terra Bella irrigation district for the coming season from $15 to $10 per acre foot, according to action taken by directors of the irrigation board early in April. The reduction, it is understood, was made possible by better water conditions this year.

The Pasadena Junior College five-man rifle team has won the national junior rifle trophy for 1932, it was announced in a recent telegram received by Col. George H. White, R. O. T. C. commander. Members of the winning team are: William Hibbard, Clarence Townsend, Marshall Rusth, Kenneth Wilkes and Charles Hewins.

The Kings County Board of Supervisors accepted plans for a $40,000 wing to be built on the Kings County Hospital this summer. E. J. Kamp, Fresno architect, has been employed by the board. The plans include a ward capable of accommodating thirty-six additional beds, which W. D. Drennen, steward, believes will take care of the needs of the institution for a good many years.

The Third District Court of Appeals recently sustained the injunction which had been placed on the Mt. Shasta Power Corporation by the Superior Court of Shasta County. F. M. Callison and twenty-seven others had alleged the dam which the corporation constructed in the Fall River had flooded their lands and had diverted water that they had used for irrigation and domestic purposes.

Southern California waters yielded a bumper harvest of 42,500 tons of sardines during the season which has just closed, a big increase over the previous season, it was reported by the State Fish and Game Commission.

The House recently approved an appropriation of $217,609 for Federal aid for the marine schools of California, Massachusetts, New York and Pennsylvania. Each would receive $25,000 if the bill becomes law, while $117,600 would be used to maintain and repair vessels loaned to these State schools.

Dr. John J. Crowley, a former State Senator, has resigned as superintendent of the Mendocino State Hospital, effective June 1.

The bequest of Leonard Howarth, capitalist, of $75,000 to the city of Santa Rosa will be placed in a foundation fund for the acquisition and development of local parks and playgrounds.

Doctors Charles T. Sturgeon and W. R. Maloney of Los Angeles and Fred De Lappe of Modesto have been appointed members of the State Board of Medical Examiners by Governor Rolph. Doctors De Lappe and Sturgeon serve until January 15, 1935, and Dr. Maloney's term expires January 15, 1936.

More persons found recreation in the national forests last year than in 1930, the Department of Agriculture reported recently. Visitors to the national forests last year numbered 32,228,613, a gain of 324,098 over the year before. California led all states in the recreational use of its national parks, with 17,454,748 visitors to its nineteen parks.

The War Department recently approved allotments for river and harbor improvements in Washington, Oregon and California, totaling nearly $100,000. The allotments were: Willapa River, harbor development, Washington, $35,000; Yaquina Bay, harbor, Oregon, $20,000; Humboldt Bay, harbor, California, $2500; Noyo River, California, $10,000; Sacramento River, $29,098.

A gasoline tax loss of approximately $500,000 was recently reported by Col. Walter E. Garrison, State director of public works, on the basis of a $9,462,990 collection for the first three months of this year. The State Board of Equalization said that while gasoline taxes decreased in January and February compared with last year, a gain of 3.4 per cent in March is encouraging for the balance of the year.

Because of the numerous rescues made necessary at municipal beaches, principally from tide rips, the City Playground and Recreation Department is continuing its campaign of education on surf-and-sand hazards and how to avoid them. The department reports that more than 50,000 persons have viewed its film, illustrating beach, safety "don't." The film illustrates the most common hazards at beaches and the suction seaward by tide rips is emphasized.

Friends of Bob Mallett, 17, Sacramento high school student, raised funds to send him to the convention of the American Junior Red Cross in Washington, D. C., and he returned as national president of the organization. He delivered an address on the same program with President Hoover at the National American Red Cross convention, placed a wreath on the tomb of Washington, addressed several organizations while in the capital and had tea with Mrs. Hoover at the White House.

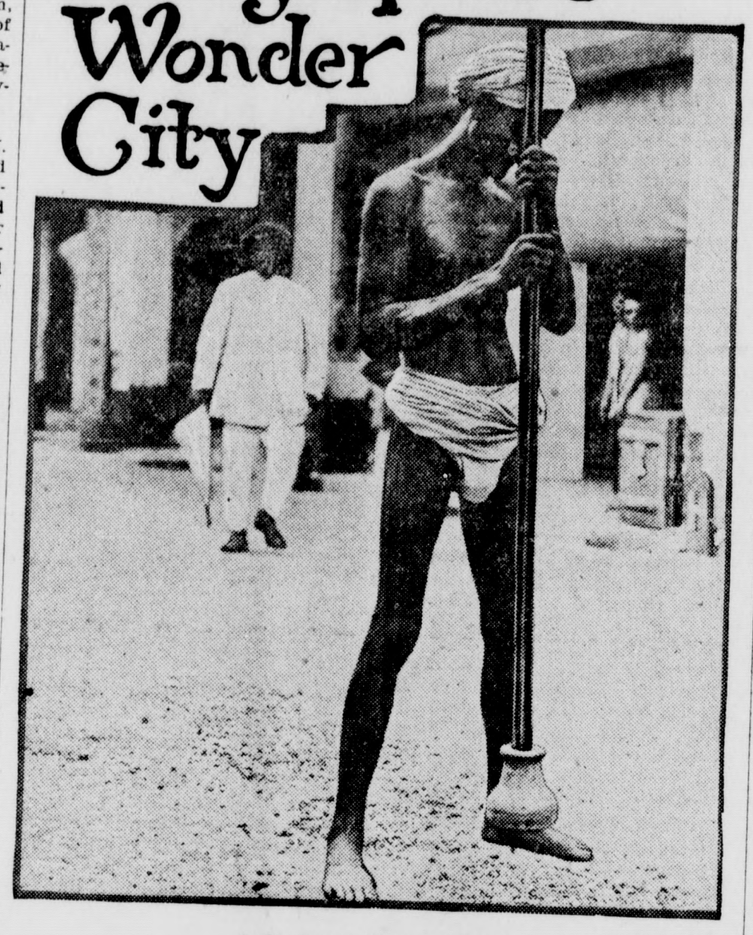
After more than eighty years of continuous but changing activity, the mud volcanoes on the southeastern shores of Salton Sea, still are erupting. A geologist recently studying the area found countless new breaks in the flat surface of the silt through which mud and steam were bubbling As soon as a cone is built up to a height of six or seven feet, a new outlet apparently is found by the hot sub-surface mud and a new cone is started. The weight of the silt which the Colorado River has deposited in the basin, through the centuries, is believed to account for the heat.

While there is not much danger for a time of fires, Ranger Arthur Moberg of the State Forest Service, with headquarters at Porterville, urges all motorists to use caution. The fire season officially opened the 15th of April, but at that time grass was still reasonably moist and danger of fire not great. However, now there are many spots where a fire might start easily and care will be necessary until winter snows fly again. A severe fire hazard presented this season by luxurious growth of grass following heavier rains this spring. Moberg asks cooperation of the public in keeping down fires this year.

After a two-year search for a suitable property, definite selection of a site known as the Lewis ranch, 56 miles west of Los Angeles, in Ventura County, for a $1,500,000 state mental hospital, has been announced by a state commission headed by Dr. J. M. Toner, director of institutions. The purchase price was fixed at $415,000, the property embracing 1512 acres, equipped with buildings, five wells for pumping irrigation water, other wells for domestic water supply, and 17,300 feet of concrete pipe lines, these improvements representing a value of $91,750. Crops raised on the land include sugar beets, walnuts, lima beans, alfalfa, citrus and other vegetables. With more than $1,000,000 now available for actual building work, construction of the first units will be speeded, Dr. Toner announced.

The insurance companies after two and a half months' delay have adjusted the loss on the Perris Union High School, which was seriously damaged by fire February 12. The board of trustees has voted to accept $22,000 on the building and $5000 on the contents, making a total of $27,000. The building will be partially rebuilt and put in shape for school purposes for the next school year. It was hoped that a large new building might be erected on a new site, but it was deemed unwise to try to float a bond issue for an entire new building.

Singapore—Wonder City



A Singapore "Steam Roller."

(Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)—WNU Service.

THE uncompleted British naval base at Singaport again may swarm with workmen. The base has been a political football in British official circles for more than a decade. Construction began in 1921 but before much progress was made, the project was interrupted by political quarrels until 1928. In that year the base site was the scene of much activity but work again was halted when the Labor party, which opposed the project, came into power.

To the military strategist, Singapore is one of Britain's main links in its chain of defenses that stretch from Gibraltar through Malta, Suez, Aden and Ceylon, but to students of geography and readers of fiction, it is the "Crossroads of the East," and a city where "East meets West."

In all the swift, significant changes wrought by white men in the East, no one event stands out more conspicuously than the rapid rise of Singapore. From a jungle isle, where tigers ate men at night, to a magnificent city, tenth among the ports of the world, in less than a century!

Its place on the map, its strategic position here at the crossroads of the East, forced it to a growth at once unique and astonishing. Last year nearly 10,000 ships cut the cobalt-blue seas of the Malacca strait, tying up the trade of Singapore with Europe, Africa, and India, with Australia, China, Japan, and the Americas.

And how Singapore came to be a city is one of the latter-day romances of the Orient. Away back in history, before even the days of Marco Polo, the Malays had founded their powerful states and set up an empire on their peninsula. Then came the Portuguese and laid waste to the strongholds of the sultans, leaving colonists whose descendants, bearing long, aristocratic names oddly out of place among Malay cognomens, are still found throughout the Indies.

After the Portuguese came the Dutch, sweeping from Malacca to Manila, only to be followed later by the British, who, with their genius for colonization, are here to this day. It was this British adventure, about a hundred years ago, that lured Stamford Raffles, born at sea, into this restless region of the then unknown East. And Fate willed that he should found this great Singapore.

Singapore was not conquered like Hindustan, nor acquired as a ready-made colony, like Hongkong; it was simply bought as New York was, and settled, when Sir Stamford Raffles selected it as an outpost for British traders on the China route and purchased it for the East India company from the Sultan of Johore. It was a jungle-covered island then, peopled by a few score savage Malay fisherfolk.

Now it is a wonder city, with marble bank buildings of singular beauty and great stone law courts and government edifices and Christian churches—all in striking contrast to the ornamental Malay mosques, the carved temples of the Hindus, and the fantastic joss houses of the Chinese.

A Jungle Reclaimed.

Through the thick jungle, where once led only the elephant paths, wide, level roads have now been built, and the hoarse squawk of the motor horn has drowned the fierce growls of the lurking tiger.

Forty-five years ago a few Para rubber plants smuggled out of Brazil fruited here. Today, three-fourths of the world's rubber comes from this region. And in this magic development Americans have played a leading role.

This Malay peninsula, stretching hundreds of miles from the Siamese frontier down toward the equator, forms a vast humid region of dense forests of jungle, wild elephants, snakes, and naked people, rice fields, rubber plantations, and tin mines. Few American tourists see it.

Singapore, built on a tiny green isle of the same name, which lies just off the end of the peninsula and nearly on the Equator, is the capital of the British crown colony commonly called the Straits Settlements. This colony embraces the Province Wellesley, the Dindings and Malacca on the mainland, and the islands of Penang and Singapore.

More than fifty steamship lines and its cable net and radio stations tie Singapore up with adjacent regions, and British Malaya, the Dutch East Indies, and Siam constitute a unit in commercial geography which centers at the great port.

"The Melting Pot of Asia," they call this prolific, potent peninsula, because of the babel of races, colors, and castes which its wealth of rubber and tin has drawn to it. But in all this industrial army of Europeans, Chinese, Japanese, Tamils, Hindus, and assorted South Sea Islanders, the Chinese are the most numerous and powerful.

The Malay himself is too lazy even to be a good fisherman. He grows a little rice, a few coconuts, and nets the fish he needs, but Nature is so kind that it is said one hour's effort a day will support him and his family.

It is the Chinaman who is the tin miner, the farmer, shopkeeper, artisan, contractor, and financier.

Nature's motion picture, as your ship swings into the narrow, 60-mile-long Singapore roads, is like a vision of some fabled Dream Isles of Delight. Fairy isles they seem, floating on a turquoise sea, wooded, jungle-gowned in brightest green, miraculously broken off and cast adrift from Sumatra and Malaya.

Cruising through these straits, your ship creeps so close to certain isles that you can actually see the natives going about their daily life, and you can clearly make out the intimate details of the tiny palm-leaf shacks, which stand on stiltlike piles out over the water.

When Not so Charming.

But on certain hot, steamy days in early autumn, when no air stirs and the tide has run very low, these islands, on closer inspection, are not all so charming. Then the receding waters leave vast, flat banks of slimy stinking mud, alive with crawling creatures pursued by long-legged birds; and the myriad mangrove trees that hug the shore are left standing with their naked crooked roots all exposed—an oddly repellent picture, suggesting the wet, slippery coils of a million monster serpents, their bodies all twisted together, seeming to crawl in and out of the foul steaming ooze.

You are glad, then, when your ship has poked her restless nose past these reeking mud flats and you come to the anchorage, lying up amid as strange a fleet as ever the sun shone on.

Swarming about your ship in their bobbing canoes, little Malay boys come to dive for nickels, for do not all American sahibs observe the odd custom of throwing money into the sea as they approach a tropic port?

The white man's life today in Singapore, as in other tropic parts, is easy and comfortable. The British and American trading firms are all staffed, in the higher positions, by men from the home lands. Office hours are fairly short, down in this equatorial clime, for the white man must have more recreation than in the colder countries of the north.

Here, near the Equator, dasy and nights are about equal; toward dark the din of barter and sale subsides and the streets begin to empty. The houseboat folk of the river and the wharf workers quiet down. Chinese shopkeepers shuffle out to put up their shutters. High above, the star pictures of heaven are hung out—the sprawling Scorpion and the majestic Southern Cross. Long before ten o'clock this magic, mongrel city of tin, trade, and turbulence is sound asleep. No speeding joy rider, owl car, or roof-garden jazz breaks the delicious stupor of its repose.

CHAPTER XI

They drove most of the night. Much of it was done silently.

"What's your racket, Fullhouse?" Joe asked at last.

"Shooting pool. I handle a good cue, enough to take plenty jack on call shot, after I've strung a guy along for a while. I'll work it alone until we're out of the fog. Then I'll use you to stir up suckers."

Joe Barry moved impatiently.

"I want to make some big money," he said. "Quick. I want to hire some good lawyers."

"I'll say you'll need money. Figuring on bucking the rap, eh?"

"After a while."

"How you mean, after a while?"

"After I've gotten my money and done what I intend doing." There was no melodrama in the tone. "Then I'll get lawyers."

Fullhouse occupied himself for a moment in the intricacies of jerky steering.

"Well," he said at last. "If you're in a tight place for kale, I guess we could prowl a dump. I know a swell joint we could prowl," he added.

Joe Barry bent forward, his aching head in cupped hands.

"Listen, Fullhouse," came after a moment. "I told you it wasn't right to take me with you. I'm desperate. There isn't anything for me to live for, except the satisfaction of doing the one thing I want to do and then trying to beat the penalty, just so I can laugh at them. That's all. They've made a murderer out of me, and when they get me, they'll have a murderer, if that's going to help them. If there's any justice, I'll have squared accounts for somebody else—those two men that were killed on the Orr's Mill road."

"H—l!" exclaimed Fullhouse. "You figuring on bumping somebody off? You're tough, eh keed?" Then as with an afterthought: "You keep blattin' about wanting something. You mean setting somebody over. What for?"

"Fullhouse," asked Joe, "did you ever hear of a man named Big Friday?"

There was a bad piece of road ahead; Fullhouse did not answer for a moment.

"No; what's he do?"

"I would like to find out. I've got a notion he and Martin are mixed up in some way. I think I'm going to be able to prove it some day."

"Yeh?" Fullhouse jerked a glance at him, then returned to his steering. "That's the guy you said was sitting over in a corner. Now, get me straight, keed. I never saw him. I ain't saying he wasn't there; I just never saw him. You think him and this Friday was mixed up together?"

"I almost know it. I've got an idea that Big Friday isn't going to be hard to trail. He's been in mix-ups before, if I'm not wrong. I can find Martin through him."

"Yeh?" Fullhouse swung his head again. "You all done? Well, now I'm going to tell you something. You're going to stick with me until you get steady on your feet. You're all shot. You wouldn't bump a guy off," Fullhouse argued. "Say, listen. What you want to do is to get yourself a wad of jack and blow. This ain't the only country where they got places to live in."

There was a long silence, while the rattling machine made its dimly lighted way through darkness. Ten miles passed.

"Listen," said Fullhouse. "We'll hit the leaping tick when we strike the next burg. Go to different notels, see? That's better for this first night, so if there has been a tail on us, he won't hook up to us by this car. And listen. I've been thinking. You ain't going to be writing any letters to nobody?"

Joe looked up quickly.

"Of course not," he said, a certain hardness in his voice. The wariness which had come to him in the menagerie tent had not relaxed. Fullhouse had been revealed to him tonight as a vastly different person from the emotionless, often taciturn person he had known at Louie Bertolini's. As far as the law was concerned, Joe reflected, he was a murderer now; what more damage could be done? Suppose he killed men who must be worse than dogs to coldly, maliciously, condemn an innocent person to the chair to protect themselves. It wouldn't be murder to kill them; it would be justice and retribution and humanity toward some other boy, stumbling about the maze of New York until he fell into their nets.

It did not even affect him to realize that perhaps Fullhouse had looked as much to his own desires as to altruism in his rescue of Joe from impending arrest. Fullhouse had an ax to grind, Joe Barry felt sure, but he found that he cared little. Perhaps this man might be leading him on to more sinister things than he had hinted, taking advantage of the fact that Joe already was a fugitive from justice, to assure himself of a partner in crime. It made little difference. Joe told himself. After all, there were only two things paramount, the protection of a girl and his own escape. Of the two, the first was tremendously important. He had lied to Fullhouse about writing. There was a way, he knew, to halt any danger that might threaten her from Chuven and Maxwell.

"About them hotels," said Fullhouse, looking up suddenly at the sight of a street sign. "I'll drop you out on a dark street and you go in first. I'll come in later, like we didn't belong together and go to another room. You're half dead; you'll probably sleep all day. So'll I, for that matter. If you don't sleep, lay low. Stay in your room. Tomorrow night at eight o'clock; it'll be dark then. This place is Fayetteville; thought I knew it. Been through here a million times. There's a park down about two blocks from the hotel where we'll stay at. Fayette house; I'll put you out on a side street. Meet me at that park, eight o'clock tomorrow night."

At last Joe was in the hotel, paying for his lodging in advance owing to a lack of luggage. Once in his room, he strode to the writing desk and pulled open the drawer.

"Bring me up some stationery," he commanded of the boy. "A bunch of it. I've got a lot of writing to do."

Sunrise found him still at his task, a haggard man, bent low over the writing desk, his free hand brushing often at his red-lidded eyes. Bright day and he sagged in his chair. The task was done.

There had been no excuses. There had been no plea for faith, no extenuation, to hint of a future. It had been a straight-forward, brutal letter, in which he had asked forgiveness and in the next sentence, commanded that she do not give it. Joe Barry had put his soul on paper to save a girl the possibility of police embarrassment. Here was his story. She could hand it to the officers. Certainly they could ask no more of her than that.

Joe did not know that he had placed into ink and paper a classic of manliness. Just as he had taken his blows from the first moment that four men knocked at his door, so had he taken them now, without weakness, save that of which he accused himself.

That evening, as he left the hotel to meet Fullhouse, he asked about air mail, and dropped his missive into the box. It had been his sole concession to himself, to wait until its arrival could not form a clew for a telegraphic order to arrest.

That night, the wandering process began. It was a haphazard course, altered to the whims of Fullhouse and his hopes of a poolroom gold mine. Fifty miles one day, a hundred the next; travel usually was done just following darkness.

They stopped at cheap hotels, rooming together now that Fullhouse had decided that direct chase was eluded. They ate at cheap restaurants; meal times and travel times were about the only ones in which Joe was allowed to leave his room. Thus life continued for more than two weeks.

The horrible loneliness of it gnawed at him, hurt him like a canker. The old hollows were returning to his cheeks, and the circles under his eyes. He had developed unkemptness, shirt loose at the collar, tieless; he went unshaven from day to day. Fullhouse left him alone only for short intervals; sometimes he would come back to display money in plenty, at other times, he was not so prosperous. He talked little of his activities, but he seemed insatiable regarding Joe—how he felt, if he was making it all right, whatever made him think that man-gutter of a Pete Maxwell would ever help him, what kind of a guy this Hymie Fradke was anyhow.

"Why are you always bringing that up?" Joe snapped one afternoon. He was irritable, fed up, glowering. "Haven't you ever heard a joke, or seen a funny thing in your life? Didn't anybody laugh in the poolroom? No, it's got to be these ghosts of mine, over and over and over. Don't you think I live with 'em enough?"

"H—l!" said Fullhouse. "Don't go dramatic over it. Can't a guy ask questions that wants to help you?" Then with a new tone. "If I'm your friend, ain't I got a right to know everything?"

"If you're my friend," said Joe Barry slowly, "there may be a day when you're glad you didn't know too much."

"Oh, yeah? You still got that bughouse notion, eh?"

"I'll always have it."

Opium in Commerce

Opium is the dried milky juice of the unripe capsules of a poppy which for this product has been cultivated through many centuries. Every species of poppy is capable of yielding it to a greater or less extent. Opium is procured by making incisions in the poppy head or capsule, taking care not to penetrate its cavity. The juice then exudes in drops, and after being allowed to remain for a day upon the edges of the incision it is scraped off—a brownish, jellylike material. As the soft opium accumulates it is molded into roundish lumps or irregular flattened cakes of various sizes and put aside to dry. When of proper consistency it is generally wrapped in leaves and sent to market.

City's Liberty Tree

The Providence (R. I.) Journal says that on July 25, 1769, the liberty tree of Providence was dedicated in front of Capt. James Olney's house, on Olney lane, now Olney street, by the Sons of Liberty. Among the lower branches a platform was built from which speeches were made. The tree was cut down about 1825.

POLYDORUS WINS ROLPH HANDICAP

Friar Rock was at Santa Rosa for several years following a brilliant career on the race courses of the East, so it was quite in keeping with the visit of Governor Rolph to Tanforan that he should stop in that town for awhile on the way fom Sacramento to Tanforan last Saturday. For it was Polydorus, a good son of Friar Rock, that scored an impressive victory in the Governor Rolph Handicap.

Friar Rock, of noted lineage, could run both fast and far, and he has transmitted the highly desirable qualities of speed and stamina to his progeny. It happens that Polydorus Rock—a son of the Tripple Crown winner Rock Sand and Fair Play's dam, was sired after the return of Friar Fairy Gold—to the East.

Polydorus is an extremely clever runner, as was shown by his making all of the pace, with the steadying impost of 121 pounds on his back. The bay four year old is a development of the present meeting at Tanforan. On his return to the tracks nearer his foaling place he is likely to take high class ones into camp.

When the description of the Kentusky Derby came over the ether waves to Tanforan, attention of the immense throng was rapt and a great cheer went up with the announcement of the triumph of E. R. Bradley's Burgoo King. Similarly to Polydorus, Burgoo King has plenty of English blood in his veins, but that does not take away any of the credit for having bred the colt. It takes a keen mind to get the proper nick, no matter in what country a stallion and broodmare may have been foaled.

The victories of Burgoo King and Polydorus demonstrate that varying methods of conditioning thoroughbreds can be followed with success. Bradley's trainers make few misses in having their gallopers fit on the day of an important engagement; the horses are "sweated for the brass," as the old saying has it. Harry Unna, on the other hand, takes his time and is principally concerned with gradually putting hard flesh on the members of his string, but almost invariably has them ready, as Tanforan fans know.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS TO MEET AT RIVERSIDE

Several hundred delegates from all parts of the state, representing 125 subordinate councils of the order, are expected to attend the 1932 annual state convention of Knights of Columbus, California jurisdiction, at Riverside on May 15, 16 and 17.

The conclave will formally open Sunday morning, May 15, at 10:30 A. M., with High Mass in St. Francis de Sales Church. Immediately after Mass Judge Thomas P. White of Los Angeles, representing the Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, will present a large silk American flag to Mayor Joseph Sheldon Long of Riverside.

On Monday morning, May 16, Memorial High Mass will be said in St. Francis de Sales Church at 8 A. M. The initial business session of the state convention will be called to order at 10 A. M., in the Auditorium, of Mission Inn, by State Deputy Benno M. Brink of Los Angeles. At the afternoon session, reports will be made by various district deputies and state committee chairmen, on their activities during the past year. Visiting ladies will be guests of the local women's committee at informal functions Monday and Tuesday afternoons. The convention banquet will take place Monday night, in the Mission Inn; Joseph Seymour of Riverside presiding as toastmaster.

VACATION SAFETY TAUGHT CHILDREN

Ways of avoiding traffic dangers as well as other hazards that children may meet during the approaching school vacation period are being impressed this month on pupils in 13,000 classrooms of northern and central California. Rules of vacation safety are presented by the May poster and lesson material for use of teachers distributed by the Public Safety Department of the State Automobile Association. The poster carries the slogan, "Make Vacation Days Safe Days." The lesson data offers the following rules:

While at home: Play on public playgrounds, sidewalks, or in your own yards.

Cross streets at intersections only, not in the middle of the block or against signals.

Use roller skates in safe places, taking them off before crossing busy streets.

Stay close to the right side of the road or street when riding a bicycle and give proper arm signals.

While on trips: Drive and ride carefully, never taking unnecessary chances of injuring yourself or others.

Walk facing traffic on highways.

Do not ask for rides with strangers.

While in the mountains: Use the main trails to avoid getting lost.

Never leave campfires until they have been buried or put out with water.

Give first aid immediately to cuts and scratches.

Carefully avoid touching unknown plants, because they might be poisonous.

While at beaches: Swim in safe places; avoid getting too far from shore.

Find out the depth of the water in strange locations before diving.

Study life-saving methods and learn how artificial respiration is applied.

Remain seated when riding in canoes or other small boats.

BOYS AND GIRLS

Robert Lee, 12, of Minneapolis, won the junior figure skating championship of the United States in a contest held in New York City.

Sidney Alice Moore, 14, is catcher of the high school baseball team of Clayton, Mich., all the other members of which are boys.

Jackie Lewis Renner, 29 months old, of Akron, Ohio, can name the capitals of all the forty-eight states in much shorter time than most adults.

Imogene Lockett, student at Crescent Colloge, Arkansas, won a beauty contest held in connection with the National A. A. U. women's basketball tourney held recently at Shreveport, La.

Jimmy Jensen, a freshman at the University of Nevada, financed his way through high school by farming and he is now putting himself through college the same way.

Ardith Gaines, of Memphis, Tenn., who is only six years old, has been a contract bridge player of no mean ability for about six months.

Charles Highfield, 14-year-old London lad who claims to be the strongest boy in Great Britain, can hold a 100-pound weight over his head with one hand.

Sybil Ferguson, a senior in Baylor College for Women at Belton, Texas, made perfect "A" records for two consecutive terms, besides working three hours a day as secretary to the dean.

James Gordon, 14, of Madisonville, Ky., has received the desk and gavel that were used at the Baltimore convention when Woodrow Wilson was nominated in 1912.

The girl with the pretiest smile in the area around Albany, N. Y., according to the results of the American Legion contest, is Rosaline O'Toole, chosen from among fifty contestants.

After two years' work, 15-year-old John Read, of Chicago, has completed a rubber-tired locomotive which he says can attain a speed of 80 miles an hour.

Eleanor Flint, of Winnipeg, Canada, is the only girl among thirty-six students enrolled in a course of mechanics of aviation at the George Washington high school in Los Angeles.

When the clothing of his two-year-old brother was ignited by a match in their home in Pendleton, Ind., Jack Eads, aged 4, saved the baby's life by immediately tearing off the burning garments.

Little Anton Hoffmann, 6, was recently awarded a silver loving cup following a series of children's concerts at Carnegie Hall, New York City.

The champion revolver shot of her sex is Arlane Brown, 15, of St. Louis, who has won twenty-six medals since her father taught her to shoot three years ago.

On a basis of beauty, brains, and charm, Miss Virginia True, University of Wyoming co-ed, was awarded first prize in the annual contest.

Jack Beard, student at Wittenberg College in Springfield, Ohio, was recently named the most popular man in the school, while his sister, Margaret, was named among the "Big Ten" co-eds.

Because their head master prohibited the use of cosmetics in school, 150 college girls in Belgrade went on strike and declared war on the Jugoslavia minister of education.

In a contest in New York, 19-year-old Betty Genirrap was chosen as the most beautiful and shapely German girl in the United States.

Olive Charboneau, a 15-year-old 4-H Club girl of Vester, Wis., won $500 in a contest to determine the best cherry pie baker in the country.

Colonel Oscar W. Connor, 11, who is mascot of the governor's staff of Mississippi, is believed to be the youngest officer of his rank in the United States, if not in the world.

Evelyn Dodson, of Reform, Ala., received the first degree conferred by the home economics school at the University of Alabama.

Evelyn Joyner, of Harlingen, Texas, 17 years old, claims to be the youngest girl airplane pilot in Texas.

Evelyn Martin, of Florence, Ala., won first prize in a state contest for high school violin pupils, held at the Woman's College in Montevallo, receiving high praise for her unusual skill.

Eleanor P. Myers, 16, of Youngstown, N. Y., has been crowned queen of the New York apple blossom festival.

Helen Ressler is said to have the most beautiful hands of any girl in the city of New York.

LOOKING SOUTHWARD

Recent developments point to an increasing interest in South America on the part of American business men, and it seems likely that investments in that direction may in future prove more attractive than the financing of European enterprises.

With improved transportation facilities the volume of tourist travel to Latin-American countries is also on the increase and as conditions return to normal these interesting countries may vie with the Old World as the objective of vacationists.

Recently the Tropical Oil Company, a subsidiary of the Standard of New Jersey, entered into a contract whereby Buenaventura, Colombia, will become one of the leading petroleum ports of the west coast of South America. The ancient harbor is to be improved and an oil ship fueling station will be established, in pleasing contrast to the days when soft coal fueling was a disagreeable feature of cruises to this region.

From Buenaventura many tourists will explore the interior of Colombia, climbing the steep slopes of the Andes by railroad to the tropical old Spanish city of Cali, thence to the quaint and fascinating capital city of Bogota, high above the clouds.

Plans under way for the development of foreign trade and closer contact with countries south of the isthmus will undoubtedly prove of immense benefit to the people of both Americas.

ON AUTOMATIC WATER HEATERS

Now you can afford Automatic Hot Water!

Think of it, for as little as $4.85 down, you and your family can begin tomorrow to enjoy all the benefits of Automatic Hot Water heating in your home.

This offer, limited now for the month of May, distributes easy payments over many months.

The Automatic Gas Water Heater heats the water to correct useable temperature, about 140 degrees, stores it away in a thickly insulated tank and automatically shuts itself off. Bills of thousands of users show that an Automatic heats water at the lowest cost per gallon of any water heating method for the home.

And prices of these modern, economical Automatic Water Heaters are 50% less now than in 1917. Liberal trade-in allowance will be made for your present obsolete water heating equipment regardless of its age or condition.

Take advantage of the easy purchase terms on an Automatic Gas Water Heater during this month. These low terms include complete installation.

Jensen, together with a lovely poem, written by him for the club in honor of this occasion, and read by the Junior Past President Mrs. Stella Jensen.

A LOVELY TREE

The Mother of our cradles be
None other than a lovely tree;
And under its protecting arms,
Our childhood comes to youthful charms.
There many a troth is made complete,
As lovers love and life is sweet.
For underneath its boughs they plan
Their future home—their Beulah land.
Made and shaped of tree that's gold
To man a symbol of Immortal soul,
Until our final couch shall be,
Like cradle—made from lovely tree.

The members present who assisted the president in the dedication were: Mesdames Bowen, Jensen, Wight, Atkinson, Zulk, Carpenter, Elmers, Owens, Sturla, Benassini, Schomaker, N. Wight, Clay. The committee in charge of the day were Chairman Mrs. Mabel Bowen, Mrs. Stella Jensen, Mrs. Cathryn Wight, Mrs. Mary Carpenter and Mrs. Christine Clay.

SPLINTERS

From the H. H. Smith Lumber Yard

VOLUME 4 FRIDAY, MAY 13, 1932 NUMBER 42

Published in the interests of the People of Daly City and vicinity by H. H. Smith and Employees.

A budding reporter was told never to use two words where one would do. He carried out this advice in reporting an accident.

"John Jones struck a match to see if there was any gasoline in the tank. There was. Age 65."

Quit Kiddin'

Maude (at baseball game): "And what are those men out there for?"

Jack: "They're the fielders. They catch flies."

Maude: "I wish you would quit being so sarcastic when I ask a civil question."

No Horse on Her

Grocer (to bride): "How about some nice horseradish?"

B. B.: "Oh, no, indeed; we keep a car."

"What has become of your ethics?" reprimanded the old doctor to a student.

"Why, didn't you know I traded it for a Hudson."

SCORE CARDS for whist parties. Call at this office.

Make 1932 the banner year for your home. Bring it up to date and beautify it. The returns in pleasure, comfort, and values are manifold, and the investment is safer than banks or bonds, more profitable than furs and jewels.

Do you need a Fix-it Man? Give us a ring and he will be at your service. Cost estimates will be gladly furnished on any repair work.

Clerk: "I would like to go to my mother-in-law's funeral this afternoon."

Boss: "So would I."

"To what do you attribute your longevity?" inquired the young man.

"To the fact," replied the old man, conclusively, "that I never died."

Try us for Builders' Hardware.

"Waiter, what kind of meat is this?"

"Spring lamb, sir."

"I thought so! I've been chewing on the springs for an hour."

"Our child doesn't get his temper from me."

"No, it seems that none of yours is missing."
